In case someone out there was wondering, I had to give up on blogging my sessions from CFUnited when my laptop decided to start spazzing out. I'm not sure if I need to download more updates or what, but it would randomly rev my fan, and it was making enough racket that I had to stop using it during sessions.

So much for that.

I did have a blast though. I went 4-2 for stumping Adobe guys on why Peter Bell, who's talks on RAD OO and Code Generation where very nice, and Marc Esher of MXUnit who did an awesome presentation on Ant and its role in managing program deployment.
