If you've ever had to tangle with triggering hasLayout in IE6/7 then this article at www.satzansatz.de is for you. I've been working a 90 day contract to developer HTML/CSS/JS templates based on PSDs and wireframes, and I can tell you that hasLayout has become the bane of my life. Its a running joke that to debug the page you should just "apply zoom:1; liberally and see if it works". Now after reading about hasLayout in more depth, I've got some more sophisticated tricks up my sleeve.
