You can see it below, but I'm testing out Google's YouTube video ad block, and I have to say that I'm unimpressed. AdSense seems to pick up on the content of my site pretty well, but this thing is just crazy. I've gotten more videos for models doing tryouts and artists painting "web 2.0" paintings than anything useful or interesting.

Any one else have thoughts on it, or how I can improve the accuracy of what videos it picks?
